

Ace Bryant

March 21, 2009 - February 19, 2018

Ace was a very special companion. He loved everyone no matter who they were. He would always purr when someone petted him or even got close. He was so soft to the touch, as if you were trying to embrace a cloud. He lifted up my spirit when I was sad and knew how to make me smile when I was happy. When I returned from Iraq, he was my constant companion. He would show me that life was worth living because he loved his existence. He was so fascinated by everything, and always so curious. I would get lost staring into his beautiful blue eyes. I will always remember him with love and affection.
