

Daisi Fischer

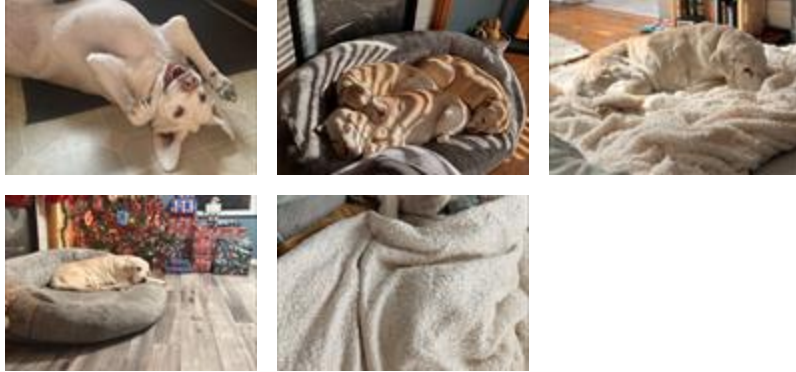

April 9, 2011 - February 28, 2026

Daisi picked me. I know it seems cliché to say, but she did. I was 9, I had gotten on honor roll so my reward was a puppy. We went to pick that puppy up, the fattest little lab puppy you'd ever seen. She bypassed the people she'd known all of her short life, bypassed my dad and came right to me. I said hi, she waddled off and came back, only to bring me a dead bird. She laid it right at my feet and sat right down. When we opened the car door, something she'd never been in, she hopped right up and slept in my lap the rest of the way home. From that we had been inseparable. I didn't have any friends in middle school/late elementary school. So she was my friend, I talked to her, cried to her, she was my best friend. We did everything together, went everywhere, shared everything. She met and loved my friends in high school, lived with us in our first college house and dealt with our antics. She moved out of that house with me and to another, then to another. She spent her days lounging by her personal AC unit, getting expensive food and all the ear scratches she could've ever wanted, rolling in the grass, and playing but only when she felt like it. I'll miss her forever.

“ Daisi was a rare breed. She wasn't your typical dog. She was loyal to Kennedi. Kennedi gave that dog every ounce of love that there is to give. Daisi was my sisters companion when my sister had a bad day etc. I could go on and on about that sweet angel, those who were close to daisi knows exactly how that pup was. She will never be replace but always remembered!
