

Ducky Carroll

April 26, 2021

Ducky's exact origin will always be a mystery, but it's generally agreed that she fell down from heaven in 2011 and ended up at Capital Area Humane Society in 2012. There she met her daddy, Josh Carroll, on June 12th of that year. From then on, they were inseparable: two halves of a whole. Though her devotion to her daddy was unmatched, Ducky had enough love for everyone she met. She most often wore a pure, characteristic grin and was an excellent conversationalist; she rarely barked, but rather grumbled in a language those close to her called The High Speech—beautiful to hear, but with syntax and vocabulary too complex for humans to understand. She enjoyed belly/ear rubs, camping, birthday cupcakes, long hikes, carrots, bananas, and spending time with her mawmaw and pawpaw. Smiling in her daddy's arms, Ducky went back to heaven on April 18, 2021, leaving the world a kinder place for the decade she spent here.
