

Max Corcoran

Max was a beautiful soul. He has a twinkle in his eyes. When we first met, he was abused, neglected, and abandoned. He was however indefatigable. As we toiled for several years to bring Max back to good health, we became the best of friends. My life changed drastically due to Max's needs. In the end I realize that Max saved my life, he made me become a better person. He made everyone he met a better person. His friends are in the hundreds! Be safe my friend, until we meet again. I love you, David
