Riley was a special sweet boy. He loved to beg for food, especially treats. Sherry taught him tricks like sit, stay, down, release, shake, speak, roll over and sit up. He loved Sherry and Shelly. Riley lived with his grandparents, Rod and Joanne after Sherry and Shelly moved away. He was always so excited to see the girls when they came home. His special place was on the back of the couch on a comfortable cushion so he could see out doors front and back of the house. He was our guard dog. Anyone who walked down the street he barked at. He liked his walks, but didn't want to go as much when he got older. He had a favorite toy. It was an orange rubber light bulb. He had it ever since he was a pup. The end of the light bulb was chewed off, but that is what he grabbed to greet us when we came through the door. He had many other toys he liked, especially bobos. (A long toy animal with squeakers in them) He absolutely loved all of us and we all loved him! We miss him so much and all his routines he did around the house.

“ He loved cheese, naps, car rides, barking, all his toys, but most of all his family. :) :)
